

The Instant Insights™ Assessment

1. Imagine there is an opportunity to do something within your team that involves a certain amount of risk. Think of this as jumping from one mountain top to another. There are four images below. The wider the gap between the mountains, the more risk that is involved. After reviewing the four options scroll down and choose the response that you feel best represents how much risk you would be willing to take within your current team.

2. In the previous question you were asked to indicate the level of risk you would be likely to take. Now we want to know what you think would happen if the risk doesn't pay off. There are three images below. After reviewing the three options scroll down and choose the response that best represents what you think would happen to you if you jumped from one mountain top and didn't make it to the other.

"What a bad idea!"

"Ha ha!"
